GENERAL

To facilitate computer processing, the Bureau of the Census has systematically assigned identifying codes to represent and organize the large number of named geographic areas in its data files. This publication is a handbook of these identifying codes for named geographic areas tabulated in the 1980 Decennial Census of Population and Housing.

Some of these areas are legally established, such as States, counties, legally constituted county subdivisions, incorporated places, American Indian reservations, and Alaska Native villages, while others have been established for statistical purposes, such as census geographic regions and divisions, census county divisions, census designated places, urbanized areas (UA's), standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's), and standard consolidated statistical areas (SCSA's).

(See map depicting some of these types of areas at the end of this section.)

Many of the codes have been published by the National Bureau of Standards as part of the Federal Information Processing Standards Publication (FIPS PUB) series, while others were established by the Bureau of the Census solely for its operational purposes.

CONTENTS

The 1980 Geographic Identification Code Scheme (GICS) contains three sections: an Introduction, a United States Summary for nationwide coding schemes, and a State tables section covering each State and State equivalent. (See discussion under "States.")

This introduction provides a brief census definition of the geographic areas listed above and a description of the coding scheme used for each of them in census data products.

The U.S. Summary presents alphabetic tables of names and identifying codes for the following areas: census geographic regions and divisions, States and State-equivalent entities, standard metropolitan statistical areas and urbanized areas, standard consolidated statistical areas, and American Indian reservations and Alaska Native villages.

The State tables section contains the following tables for each State and State equivalent:

Counties, County Subdivisions, and Places

Presents names and identifying codes for all counties, county subdivisions, and places tabulated for the State in the 1980 census, in a geographic hierarchical sort; that is, counties are listed (alphabetically) within each State, county subdivisions are listed

(alphabetically) within each county, and subordinate places and parts of places are listed (alphabetically) within the county subdivision(s) in which they are located. (See example under "Places.") In addition, this table provides the following descriptive codes: Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) "place" codes (for county subdivisions and places) formulated by the National Bureau of Standards, Bureau of the Census population size codes (for county subdivisions and places) based on 1980 census population counts, place description codes (see separate discussion), applicable standard metropolitan statistical area and urbanized area codes, and flags indicating the presence of census tracts and/or census blocks. (See separate discussions.)

2. Alphabetic List of Place Names

Lists all places in alphabetical order within the State, with associated identifying and descriptive codes. There is a separate line for each part of every place that is in two or more counties and/or county subdivisions.

3. Alphabetic List of MCD Names

Lists minor civil divisions (MCD's) in alphabetical order for the States of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wisconsin. This table shows identifying codes, the Bureau of the Census Minor Civil Division Sequence (MCSQ) code which alphabetizes MCD's, and descriptive codes for each MCD. Excluded from this listing are unorganized territories and all places that are legally independent of any MCD. (See discussion under "County Subdivisions" and "Places,")

4. Changes in Geographic Codes, 1970-1980

Provides 1970-1980 code equivalencies for all counties, MCD's, and places which had intercensal identifying code revisions; most of these revisions were made to conform individual identifying codes to the coding schemes, particularly when names were added or changed.

DESCRIPTIONS AND DEFINITIONS

Census Geographic Regions and Divisions

The Bureau of the Census has divided the United States into four geographic regions, each of which is subdivided into two or more geographic divisions; their one-digit identifying codes are shown in the first table in the U.S. Summary section. Note that these geographic regions do not coincide with Bureau of the Census regional office jurisdictions nor with the Standard Federal Administrative Regions.

States

The 50 States and the District of Columbia are the primary constituent units of the United States. In addition to the District of Columbia, the Bureau of the Census treated Puerto Rico and five "outlying areas" as State equivalents for the 1980 census. The outlying areas include American Samoa, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, including the Northern Mariana Islands for which data were tabulated separately. Although the State equivalents do not have legal statehood, the Bureau of the Census treats them in a manner similar to States as a presentation convenience.

Each State and State equivalent is identified in census records by a two-digit numeric Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) State code. These codes alphabetize the 50 States and the District of Columbia within the United States. Puerto Rico and the outlying areas are coded in a separate alphabetic sequence following the codes for the United States.

The table on the first page of the U.S. Summary section presents each State and State equivalent name along with the U.S. Postal Service (USPS) two-letter abbreviation, U.S. Government Printing Office (USGPO) abbreviation, FIPS numeric State code, census State code (which codes States within census division), census region code, and census division code. FIPS numeric State codes are also shown in the first column in all State tables.

Counties

In most States, the primary divisions are termed counties. In Louisiana, these divisions are known as parishes. In Alaska, which has no counties, the countyequivalent areas consist of the organized boroughs and the "census areas" which were developed for general statistical purposes by the State of Alaska and the Bureau of the Census; these entities replace the "census divisions" published in the 1970 census. In four States (Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, and Virginia), there are one or more incorporated places which are legally independent of (i.e., not part of) any county and thus constitute additional primary divisions of their States. Similarly, the portion of Yellowstone National Park in Montana is treated as a county equivalent. The District of Columbia has no primary divisions, and the entire area is considered equivalent to a county for census purposes. Puerto Rico is composed of municipios which are treated as county equivalents; in American Samoa, the county equivalents are districts and islands; Guam has no primary divisions, and therefore the entire area is treated as a county equivalent; the Northern Mariana Islands comprises a single administrative district; the remainder of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands consists of administrative districts; and the Virgin Islands is divided into its three major islands.

The Bureau of the Census utilizes the three-digit numeric Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) county codes published by the National Bureau of Standards to uniquely identify counties and county equivalents within each State and State equivalent. These codes alphabetize the county names within the State and have gaps in the numbering sequence to allow for future revisions; generally, only odd numbers are used. Places independent of any county are alphabetized following all counties in the State, and are assigned county codes beginning with 510; these cities are presented in the State geographic tables in this report only at the "county" level. (See example under "Places.")

County Subdivisions

Codes for subdivisions of counties or equivalent areas are presented as follows:

 Minor civil divisions (MCD's) covering 29 States: Arkansas, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. (In 1970, the county subdivisions recognized for North Dakota were census county divisions.)

MCD's are primary divisions of counties established under State law. They are variously designated as townships, towns, precincts, districts, wards, plantations, Indian reservations, grants, purchases, gores, locations, or boroughs. In some "MCD" States, one or more types of incorporated places (see discussion under "Places") may be legally independent of (i.e., not part of) any MCD and are treated by the Bureau of the Census as MCD equivalents. Places independent of MCD's are presented in the State geographic tables in this report only at the "MCD" level (see example under "Places") and are assigned their own MCD codes.

In eight States (Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, North Carolina, North Dakota, and South Dakota), some counties contain territory not included in any legally organized MCD. Each such separate area in these counties is designated by the Bureau of the Census as an "unorganized territory." These MCD-equivalents are given names and MCD codes; the names are followed by the designation "(unorg.)" in the tables.

As indicated earlier, a separate State table presents MCD names and codes (excluding unorganized territories and those incorporated places which are independent of MCD's) listed alphabetically within the State for 11 States:

Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wisconsin. The Bureau of the Census has assigned four-digit Minor Civil Division Sequence (MCSQ) codes to the MCD's in these States to facilitate their alphabetization.

Census county divisions (CCD's) covering 20 States: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Kentucky, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

CCD's are geographic areas defined by the Bureau of the Census in cooperation with State and local officials for the purpose of presenting statistical data comparable to that presented for MCD's in States where there are no legally established MCD's, the boundaries of MCD's change frequently, the MCD's are not generally known to the public, or the MCD's are otherwise unsuitable for statistical purposes. Using published guidelines, CCD's typically have been designed to delineate community areas focused on trading centers or to represent major landform or land use areas. Visible, permanent, and easily described boundaries, such as roads, rivers, railroads, and power lines, are used as boundaries. The Bureau of the Census treats all places in these States as subordinate to CCD's.

- 3. Census subareas in Alaska. For the 1980 census, "census subareas" have been delineated cooperatively by the Bureau of the Census and the State of Alaska for statistical purposes. These areas replace the "county" subdivisions used for the 1970 census.
- 4. Quadrants in the District of Columbia.
- MCD-equivalent units in Puerto Rico and the outlying areas. These are termed districts, subdistricts, islands, municipalities, barrios, ciudades, pueblos, and, in American Samoa, counties; there is also one unorganized territory (in the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands).

The Bureau of the Census has established three-digit numeric codes, generally gapped by five, to identify and to alphabetize all county subdivisions within their respective counties.

Places

Unlike counties and county subdivisions, entities that are termed "places" by the Bureau of the Census generally do not completely cover higher levels of geography. Typically, places are discrete settlements, usually occupying only a portion of the county subdivision and county under which they are listed in the State geographic tables. Places may extend across county and county subdivision boundaries (but never across State boundaries); for such "split" places, the State tables list all portions of the place, the name being followed by "(pt.)" for each portion. Two types of places are recognized in the 1980 census reports: incorporated places and census designated places.

Incorporated Places

"Incorporated places" are concentrations of population which have been incorporated with legally defined boundaries under the laws of their respective States as cities, boroughs, towns, or villages, with the following exceptions: the "towns" in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin and the "boroughs" in New York are MCD's, and the "boroughs" in Alaska are county equivalents.

Some incorporated places include narrow strips of land (frequently only the rights-of-way of streets) which typically have no population nor housing units. These areas, termed "corporate corridors," are footnoted in the tables where they comprise the only portion of a place in a county and/or county subdivision.

As noted in previous paragraphs, in MCD States certain types of incorporated places may be county and/or MCD equivalents. The State geographic tables will show only a place line in these cases (but in the county or MCD position); all of the representative identifying codes will be provided. (See example below.)

Census Designated Places

As in the 1950, 1960, and 1970 censuses, the Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for closely settled communities without corporate limits or status. In the 1970 and earlier censuses, the name of each such place was followed by "(U)," meaning "unincorporated place." In 1980, the name of each such place is followed by "(CDP)," meaning "census designated place." To be recognized for the 1980 census, CDP's must have a minimum 1980 population as follows:

Area	Minimum CDP population
Alaska
Inside urbanized areas: With one or more cities of 50,000 or more With no city of 50,000	5,000 or more Outside urbanized areas

Hawaii is the only State with no incorporated places recognized by the Bureau of the Census. All places shown for Hawaii in the 1980 census reports are CDP's; Honolulu CDP essentially represents the Honolulu Judicial District. (The city of Honolulu, coextensive with the county of Honolulu, is not recognized as a place for census purposes.) All places reported in the census for Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the remainder of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands are CDP's. In Puerto Rico, the municipio centers of government are termed "zonas urbanas" and all other places are termed "aldeas"; these are also CDP's. All CDP's are subordinate to county subdivisions and counties.

The Bureau of the Census has established four-digit numeric codes which identify and alphabetize place names within each State. Together with the other three identifying codes (State, county, and county subdivision), these codes form sets of "geocodes" which serve to uniquely identify the geographic relationships of every place or portion of a place within the nation. These codes are presented in the State tables to the left of each place name.

A separate table for each State lists place names alphabetically within the State, including a separate line for each portion of a place that is located in more than one county and/or county subdivision. Some census data products contain records at the "place" level for the remainders of county subdivisions not within any place, with a place code of "9999"; these entities are not listed in this publication.

FIPS Place Codes

For county subdivisions and places in the State tables, and for American Indian reservations and Alaska Native villages in the U.S. Summary section, the tables present the five-digit numeric Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) "place" code assigned by the National Bureau of Standards; not all of these codes appear on census maps. These codes are constant for the same entity within each State, but vary for multi-State portions of American Indian reservations.

Population Size Codes

For county subdivisions and places, the State tables present a two-digit numeric size code, as follows:

Code 1980 Population

01	Under 200
02	200-499
03	500-999
04	1,000-1,499
05	1,500-1,999
06	2,000-2,499
07	2,500-4,999
80	5,000-9,999
09	10,000-19,999
10	20,000-24,999
11	25,000-49,999
12	50,000-99,999
13	100,000-249,999
14	250,000-499,999
15	500,000-999,999

These size codes are based on uncorrected published 1980 census population counts. The county subdivision size code reflects inclusion of the populations of any subordinate places or portions thereof where applicable. The code shown for a place reflects the sum of population counts for all portions of the place, and therefore is identical on all constituent place lines.

Place Description Codes

1,000,000 or more

The place description code indicates whether the place is a central city of a standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA) as defined by June 30, 1981, and/or urbanized area (UA). (See separate discussions.) It is generally, but not always, identical for all portions of the same place; for example, an SMSA/UA central city that extends into a non-SMSA county is coded "2" (rather than "3") in that county:

Code Status

- Incorporated central city of an SMSA only
- 2 Incorporated central city of a UA only
- 3 Incorporated central city of an SMSA and a UA
- 4 Other incorporated place
- A CDP named in a UA title only¹
- B CDP named in an SMSA and a UA title Blank Other CDP

Areas With Census Tracts

The Bureau of the Census publishes detailed population and housing characteristics by census tract in summary tapes and in separate Census Tracts reports (PHC80-2). Census tracts are small statistical subdivisions of counties delineated cooperatively by local Census Statistical Areas Committees and the Bureau of the Census in accordance with established guidelines. They generally have stable boundaries, contain 2,500 to 8,000 residents, and have homogeneous population and housing characteristics at the time they are established. County boundaries are always observed as census tract boundaries, and census tracts are defined so as to cover all of the territory within each tracted county. Within a county, census tracts may be split by other geographic boundaries. Census tracts are assigned unique numbers: (1) within each county and (2) within each SMSA except for the New York, N.Y.-N.J.

All counties in SMSA's established before the 1980 census are divided into census tracts, and all but 11 counties in SMSA's qualifying as a result of the 1980 census are divided into census tracts. As of the 1980 census, there are over 40,000 census tracts in 740 counties and county equivalents in 323 SMSA's. In addition, about 3,000 census tracts have been established in 221 counties outside SMSA's, of which 28 are New England counties that are partially within an SMSA. (See discussion under "Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.") A total of 933 counties are divided into census tracts. Five States are entirely divided into census tracts: Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, New Jersey, and Rhode Island. The existence of 1980 census tracts for a given area is indicated in the State tables by the appearance of a "T" flag in the "TRACTED" column.

Published Census Blocks

The Bureau of the Census publishes detailed population and housing data by census block in separate microfiche Block Statistics reports (PHC80-1). In urban areas, census blocks are generally small, compact, enclosed pieces of land formed by the intersection of streets and other physical features; in suburban and rural areas, census blocks may be quite large in area and irregular in shape. Each census block has been assigned a three-digit number unique within census tract in tracted counties and unique within block numbering area (BNA) in nontracted counties. Data for census blocks are aggregated in census tabulations into block groups (BG's), which represent all block numbers having the same first digit within the same census tract/BNA.

Census block data are published for: all territory within 1980 urbanized area boundaries, plus some territory beyond the UA; all incorporated places not in a UA and having a population of 10,000 or more inhabitants as of the 1970 census or 1976 official Bureau of the Census estimates: and other areas which contracted with the Bureau for the collection and tabulation of block statistics. Five States-Georgia, Mississippi, New York, Rhode Island, and Virginiacontracted for block data for the entire balance of their territory not already in the block statistics program. The existence of block data for a given area is shown in the State tables by two flags in the "BLOCKED" column: "P" for areas which are partly block-numbered, and "B" for areas which are entirely blocknumbered within the county listed. For all territory outside block-numbered areas-i.e., where the "BLOCKED" column is blank-the enumeration district (ED) is the smallest geographic unit reported in census data products; no data are available for these areas on as fine a level as the census block. The presence of a "B" flag, but no "T" flag in the "TRACTED" column, indicates that an area is divided into block numbering areas (BNA's). Aggregate data are available for BNA's, but only in census materials containing data for blocks or block groups.

American Indian Reservations and Alaska Native Villages

The Bureau of the Census provides detailed data for American Indians, Eskimos, and Aleuts in a variety of printed reports and summary tapes, and has established a series of three-digit numeric codes to identify American Indian reservations and Alaska Native villages and to alphabetize their names within the nation. American Indian reservations may be designated as reserves, communities, rancherias, colonies, or pueblos, and are administered by the Bureau of Indian Affairs or by State governments. Reservations, which may cross State boundaries, are located in 33 States. Codes ranging from 001 to 699 have been established by the Bureau of the Census for the 283 American Indian reservations recognized in the 1980 census. For the State of Alaska, data are tabulated for the 209 Alaska Native villages recognized in the 1980 census; these areas have been assigned codes from 701 to 995.

The final table in the U.S. Summary section lists American Indian reservation and Alaska Native village names and codes in alphabetical order, along with their accompanying five-digit numeric Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) "place" codes. The States and counties into which they extend are also shown.

Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas

The general concept of a metropolitan area is one of a large population nucleus, together with adjacent communities which have a high degree of economic and social integration with that nucleus. The standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA) classification is a statistical standard, developed for use by Federal agencies in the production, analysis, and publication of data on metropolitan areas. SMSA's are defined and designated by the Office of Management and Budget following a set of official published standards developed by the interagency Federal Committee on Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Each SMSA comprises one or more whole counties, or cities and towns in the six New England States. Generally there are one or more counties designated as "central" containing the area's main population concentration; in addition, there may be outlying counties, or cities and towns in New England, which have close economic and social ties with the central county(s). The outlying entities must have a specified level of commuting to the central county(s) and must also meet certain standards regarding metropolitan character, such as population density, urban population, and population growth.

Most SMSA's have at least one designated central city. The titles of SMSA's include up to three central city names, as well as the name of each State into which the SMSA extends. For the 1980 census, central cities of SMSA's are those named in the titles of the SMSA's with the exception of Nassau-Suffolk, N.Y., which has no central city, and Northeast Pennsylvania, the central cities of which are Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and Hazleton. In Hawaii and Puerto Rico, where there are no incorporated places recognized by the Bureau of the Census, census designated places are recognized as central "cities." The order of central city names in the title is based on population size.

The Bureau of the Census uses the four-digit numeric Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) codes which alphabetize SMSA names within the nation. The names and codes of SMSA's established on or before June 30, 1981, are listed alphabetically in the U.S. Summary section of this report. New SMSA's designated as a result of the 1980 census and changes to SMSA's since the 1970 census are documented in footnotes. SMSA codes listed in the State tables denote areas that are contained within SMSA's; the word "PART" indicates that a county in New England is only partially in an SMSA, is in more than one SMSA. or both.

Standard Consolidated Statistical Areas

In some parts of the country, metropolitan development has progressed to the point that adjoining SMSA's are themselves socially and economically interrelated. Interrelated SMSA's reaching a combined population of at least one million are designated standard consolidated statistical areas (SCSA's) by the Office of Management and Budget. SCSA titles contain two or more of the central city names of their constituent SMSA's.

A two-digit numeric code has been assigned to each SCSA to alphabetize SCSA's within the nation. SCSA names and codes are listed in the U.S. Summary section along with constituent SMSA names and codes. Footnotes indicate changes since the 1970 census.

Urbanized Areas

The major objective of the Bureau of the Census in delineating urbanized areas is to provide a better separation of urban and rural population in the vicinity of large cities. An urbanized area consists of a central city or cities which, when combined with surrounding closely settled territory ("urban fringe") having a population density of at least 1,000 persons per square mile, has a population of at least 50,000. Typically, urbanized areas cover the built-up area at the core of SMSA's and cover much less area than SMSA's (which must by definition be composed of whole counties, or of whole cities and towns in New England). For the 1980 census, there are 23 UA's located outside any SMSA, a number of SMSA's contain two or more UA's, and occasionally a UA extends into another SMSA or into a nonSMSA county.

The places named in the urbanized area title constitute the central cities of the urbanized area; Newark and Jersey City, however, are not specifically named in the New York, N.Y.-Northeastern New Jersey UA. The UA title also contains the name(s) of the State(s) into which the urbanized area extends.

The Bureau of the Census has assigned each urbanized area a four-digit numeric code to alphabetize UA's within the nation. Usually, urbanized area titles, and hence codes, match those of the SMSA's with which they are associated. The U.S. Summary section of this publication displays UA and SMSA names and codes. Urbanized area codes are listed in the State tables to denote areas that are located within the urbanized area; the word "PART" indicates that a given county or MCD/CCD is only partially in a UA, is in more than one UA, or both.

Note: The tables reflect the geographic data base at the time it was frozen for use in preparing 1980 census tabulations, published tables, summary tape files, and other census products. Published table correction notes issued as of February 1, 1983, are presented on page 28.

The Northern Mariana Islands was legally part of the Irust Territory of the Pacific Islands on January 1, 1980, but is treated separately for purposes of tabulating and presenting census data.

NOTE: The States of Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Ohlo, and Utah do not have official USGPO abbreviations and are spelled out in census records; three outlying areas have no entry in this field in census records, as USGPO requires that the names be spelled out in their entirety. Several outlying U.S. possessions are not included in census data files as they have no sub-State geographic structure (population counts only are published in Table 1 of the U.S. Summary report); their names and FIPS State codes are: Canton and Enderbury Islands (62), Johnston Atoli (including Sand Island)(67), Midway Islands (71), Navassa Island (76), Wake Island (79), and "U.S. Miscellaneous Pacific Islands" (77); none have official abbreviations, and all have census State code 08. The Canal Zone (62) is not in the 1980 census.
